COURSE CONTENT
This course teaches students the legal vocabulary. It teaches them the basics as well as how to apply the concepts traditionally used in law. Therefore, students will study the sources of objective law (constitutional, legislative, regulatory ...), the sources of subjective rights (the facts...), as well as various legal acts (classifications, definitions and effects). The holders of subjective rights (natural persons and corporations, their rights) will also be considered. To conclude, students will learn about the law, its interpretation and application (in time and space), and will be given some basics on the trial process and the judicial system in France (administrative, legal...).
